

IN HAND GUIDES Ltd.

In Hand Guides – Product Information

As a company we are developing a range of products based on the concept of low cost, yet secure, embedded audio which will allow our clients deliver product information, tourism information, and other forms of information suitable for audio, to either potential customers or in-house company personnel in a new and novel way.

IHG can provide not only the players, but studio recording and translation – a one stop shop!

As our web site demonstrates we are also developing our own branded products – for 2008 three of Irelands cities are featured on a series of 20 minutes retail visitor guides with a full supporting printed package. These are based on a product called Messenger.

IHG can also provide tailored audio services using the Ambassdor product where a visitor or heritage attraction may wish to provide to visitors a multi-language experience for use while visiting the site. These units are robust, solar powered with built in speaker and headset options.
